SEE APPROVAL OF NAVY SLASH

Hoover Victory Viewed as Officials Believe Cuts Can be Effected Without Impairing Forces

Washington, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Chairman Britten of the house naval committee said today, after conferring with navy department heads that he thought the navy "now believed the budget cuts insisted on by President Hoover could be effected without impairing the efficiency of the naval forces."

Britten talked with Secretary of the Navy Adams and Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, just before he made this statement. He also said it was "very doubtful" now whether he would insist on a congressional investigation of the administration's naval economy efforts which he previously favored.

See Hoover Victory
This development was taken to indicate that Mr. Hoover is winning his fight to pull down expenses of the navy in face of opposition within the service which became so strong that the president charged an attempt was being made to set up a backfire against him, causing him to threaten to carry the fight to the country.

In a statement appearing today, Secretary Adams said the navy costs less in proportion to national income than those of other naval powers. The per capita costs, Adams said, were $3.24 for the United States as against $6.21 for Great Britain.

Though he seldom issues press statements this one was put out for Monday newspapers under his own signature. His action gained significance also because it came just as President Hoover was about to announce appointment of a special committee to investigate assertions by William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League, that the president displays "abysmal ignorance" of naval policy and is "dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers."

Mr. Hoover publicly demanded an apology from Gardiner for his "untruths."

Meanwhile, a statement from a high official of the Navy League indicated Gardiner will face pressure from within his own organization to accede to the president's request for an apology. In issuing his statement, Adams said his attention had been called to one by the World Peace Foundation charging the United States with expending more than Great Britain on its navy. He said this was misleading. The United States spent in 1930 $375,291,828 as against $349,927,670 by Great Britain, Adams said, but he added this did not take into account the relatively higher cost of labor and materials in America, or the higher naval pay.

CITY BORN WOMAN STRICKEN, RITES HERE WEDNESDAY

SERVICES FOR MRS. J. E. ERICKSON TO BE HELD AT FIRST LUTHERAN

When the funeral services are conducted here Wednesday for Mrs. J. E. Erickson, South Pine street, relatives and long time friends will pay respects to a Brainerd woman born here Nov. 19, 1882 and a resident of the city the greater years of her life.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Erickson died Saturday evening at the St. Joseph's hospital where she had been under treatment for three weeks.

Surviving besides her widower are two sons, Bror Linus, Phillip Ellis; two daughters, Mrs. M. L. Johnson, Minneapolis, Mrs. Albert M. Nelson, Brainerd, one grandson and a brother, James Davidson, Prosser, Wash.

Clay County Ships Tenth Car to Stricken Area

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Clay county Red Cross executives and Barnesville residents today received shipping instructions for the tenth carload and potatoes and other vegetables donated by communities in the county to drought sufferers in North Dakota and Montana.

The car will be sent to the region around Circle, Mont., where a number of former Barnesville residents are now living. Preparations were being made to load another car in Moorhead today made possible by the donation of 460 bushels of potatoes by T. O. Haf-dahl.

FOOTPRINT ADDS TO MURDER THEORY IN MILLIONAIRE'S DEATH

KNIFE ALSO FOUND ON HILLSIDE OPPOSITE WHERE AUTO PULLED OFF ROAD

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. for Phillip A. Koehring, Milwaukee manufacturer, who was found in his automobile near Mauston Saturday night with a bullet in his head.

Mauston, Wis., Nov. 2.—(UP)—An 80-mile-an-hour ride with an assassin pointing a gun at his head was reconstructed today by authorities as they prepared evidence for the inquest Thursday into the death of Phillip A. Koehring, millionaire Milwaukeean.

Koehring, a bullet in his head and his rifle across his lap, was found in the driver's seat of his car which had careened off a main Wisconsin highway near here and into a field.

While investigators studied the death scene and searched for any possible clues, posses patrolled roads in this vicinity seeking the hitch-hiker who is believed to have been the assassin.

Though the bullet was fired by Koehring's own rifle, medical authorities said it would have been impossible for the wound to have been self-inflicted.

Koehring was head of the $10,000,000 National Equipment Co., manufacturers of road machinery.

He had been in the Twin Cities on business and started back to Milwaukee Saturday morning. At approximately the time it would have taken him to drive the 250 miles here, a farmer sighted the car in his field. He was attracted by clouds of steam from the radiator. He found the engine of the car still running. Police later found deep tracks along the highway and through the pasture for several hundred yards. They estimated Koehring supposedly trying to escape his assassin. Finally, the tracks indicated, he was forced to swerve from the road. The car traveled a distance along the shoulder of the road and then crashed through a fence and into the field.

Lending support to the murder theory were the finding of a pearl handled knife and a foot print on the hillside opposite where Koehring's automobile pulled off the highway into a field and the report that the industrialist had received threatening letters from discharged employees, the sheriff said.

Pheasant Flies Into Store Window; Woman Picks Berries, Beans

Oddities in Brainerd news today: Mrs. Gilbert Johnson, Gilbert Lake, picked raspberries and green beans from her garden for a family dinner. A rooster Chinese ring-necked pheasant flew into the window of the Lukan's Variety Store, Front street, breaking its neck.

Two dandelions in blossom were found by Robert Mayo this morning at 613 S. 4th street.

LATE ARRIVAL OF KILLING FROST SETS NEW STATE RECORD

FAIR SKIES AND LITTLE CHANGE IN TEMPERATURE FORECAST FOR TONIGHT

Fair skies with little change in temperature was forecast for tonight and tomorrow by the United States weather bureau today, after the season's first killing frost.

The late arrival of the first frost set a new record in Minnesota for the growing season. The previous record was established in 1921 when the frost held back until Nov. 1, M. R. Hovde, weather forecaster said.

The growing season this year extended 188 days, just over half a year. The last frost this spring occurred on April 27. This record extends back to the time when the government records were started.

The low mark in the Twin Cities this morning was 34 degrees. The same low mark was reached Sunday in many parts of the state but the large amount of moisture prevented a killing frost.

We're Making Money by Baskets Full and Going to Hell by Trainloads at Excursion Rates," Billy Sunday Cries

Joseph Stalin

Canton, O., Nov. 2.—(UP)—The Rev. William A. Sunday has opened another sizzling evangelistic campaign in this town that capped at his antics and verbal fireworks 20 years ago.

Capacity crowds heard him yesterday as he flung scripture and pupil wise cracks of which these were typical:

"No nation was ever able to hand God the hot end of a poker."

"There will be a lot of God-fearing men and women in Russia when Stalin and his cut-throats are sizzling in hell."

"We're making money in the United States by the baskets full and going to hell by the trainloads at excursion rates."

"We shudder for a generation when you have to look under the table to see if the women have any clothes on."

"If I were a judge, I would see a woman without children 40 fathoms in Hoboken before I would give her one cent of alimony."

Sunday is planning no revival in Hoboken.

SENATOR REGNIER, CAPONE'S BROTHER FARMER - LABORITE, ASKS CONGRESS SEAT

ANNOUNCES INTENTION TO FILE FROM SECOND DISTRICT SUBJECT TO PARTY ACTION

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(UP)—State Senator Emil L. Regnier, Marshall, youngest member of the state senate, today announced his intention to file as farmer-labor candidate for congress from the second district, which includes the southwestern part of Minnesota.

Regnier's announcement was subject, however, to the state farmer-labor convention, he said. Regnier announced he would stand for taxation of large incomes, levying of a gift tax and placing of the tax burden "where it belongs—on the people who can afford to pay."

Regnier was elected to the state senate in 1930.

LATEST CONFESSION OF GIRL IMPLICATES WOMAN'S HUSBAND

SAYS SHE AND THE DEAD WOMAN'S HUSBAND HAD PLANNED HER DEATH FOR MONTHS

Kirkwood, Mo., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Walter Maddux, husband of Mrs. Reba Maddux, whose body was found almost decapitated in a wooded section near here Friday night, today was charged with the murder in a fourth "confession" of Clara Fish, 19-year-old servant girl and roomer at the Maddux home.

In the series of "confessions" the girl first claimed she bought the woman a razor with which to commit suicide. She later confessed she accompanied the woman from her Webster Groves, Mo., home and stood nearby while the woman slashed her throat three times.

The girl, in her latest confession, said she and Maddux had planned the death of the woman for two months. The two had been having a love affair since Miss Fish went to the Maddux home to live several months ago. The slain woman had remonstrated with the girl and her husband on several occasions because of the attentions paid Miss Fish by Maddux, the girl's confession said.

Maddux and the girl were brought face to face while authorities read the girl's latest confession. The girl trembled as officers read the confession aloud but maintained its veracity when Maddux shouted, "You know that's a lie."

According to the girl, she and Maddux had agreed to dispose of Mrs. Maddux and then marry and go to California. The girl said she had purchased the razor and razor at the suggestion of Maddux.

Morningside Bank Yields About $4,000 to Robbers

Sioux City, Iowa, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The Morningside State Bank was robbed of between $3,000 and $4,000 today by three bandits who fled in a barrage of bullets.

The shots were fired by W. L. Ayres, cashier. It was believed none of the bullets were effective.

Miners Strike in Protest of Wage Reductions

Henryetta, Okla., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Between 750 and 1,000 coal miners refused to resume their work in the Henryetta mining district today in protest to wage reductions.

No disturbances were reported and although officers were vigilant, they anticipated no trouble.

OIL, GRAIN PRICE RISE INSPIRES

MURDERER, BANDIT GAIN FREEDOM AFTER SAWING JAIL BARS

PRISONERS OF PENNSYLVANIA COUNTY JAIL AT LARGE AFTER DARING ESCAPE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Wilfrid Flood, Detroit, Mich., a convicted murderer, and Raymond Shutt, Wilkes-Barre, bandit suspect, escaped today from the Luzerne county prison here.

Thomas Ayres, keeper in charge of the north wing, discovered the men missing when he made his morning rounds.

The cell door was open. A bar had been sawed out of the window. Of the two avenues of escape, the prisoners used the window, prison officials said.

Their trail led to an automobile parked some distance from the prison. From that point it is believed the men fled into the Pocono mountains toward New York or Philadelphia.

N. W. CITIES ASK MODIFICATION OF RAIL CLASS RATES

NORTH, SOUTH DAKOTA INTERESTS RESENT COMMERCIAL ADVANTAGES OF OTHER PORTS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Private advices from Washington today said that half a dozen North and South Dakota cities are filing briefs with the Interstate Commerce commission asking modification of new western trunk line class rates.

The petitions charge that North and South Dakota interests resent commercial advantages enjoyed by the Twin Cities and the twin ports of Superior and Duluth and urge that if any modifications are made in the rates that Dakota points should also receive rate adjustments.

Figures in Son's Fight Over Edison Millions

Asserting that his father had been "unduly influenced" by his step-mother and his half-brother, Charles, William L. Edison has announced that he would contest the will by which the bulk of the Thomas A. Edison millions were left to his two youngest sons. William L. Edison, shown at the upper left, is the great inventor's son by his first wife. Theodore Edison, who with Charles will inherit the bulk of the estate, is shown at upper right. Charles Edison and his mother are in the lower picture.

Calls Meet of G. O. P. Committee for Dec. 15

Washington, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Senator Simon Fess, chairman of the republican national committee, today called a meeting of the committee to be held in the Willard hotel here December 15.

"As matters of great importance will come up for consideration it is hoped the entire membership will be present in person or represented by proxy," Fess said in sending out the call.

ALARM FELT OVER REPORTED SECRET RUSS-CHINA PACT

JAPANESE ADVANCES AGAINST POINTS UNDER RUSSIAN INFLUENCE ALSO NOTED

London, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Japanese military advances against two points within "the Russian sphere of influence" in Manchuria and a "secret Chinese-Russian" treaty were reported today in alarming dispatches to the London newspapers concerning war threats in China.

The Daily Express correspondent at Tokio said the Japanese infantrymen enroute from Kirin to Taonan were moving with "extreme caution" and under protection of strict censorship on news dispatches.

The Soviet, warned last week by Japan against mobilization of its troops in Manchurian territory, was reported "in a belligerent attitude."

The Daily Mail correspondent at Tokio reported that Japanese were threatening to advance northward from Kirin province because Chinese troops in northern Manchuria had defied a Japanese ultimatum to repair a damaged railroad bridge. The bridge was wrecked last week by Japanese aviators who said Chinese had fired on them. The ultimatum will expire tomorrow.

Preparations were reported started at Mukden, the Manchurian capital, to send a powerful Japanese force to "unknown destinations." It also was said Chinese were preparing to seize the Japanese consulate at Tsitsihar in northern Manchuria.

The Daily Mail quoted a message from Port Arthur saying a secret Chinese-Russian agreement had been reached, under which the Chinese government head, Chiang Kai-Shek, undertook to resume diplomatic relations with Russia if Moscow promised not to interfere in affairs in inner Mongolia. The dispatch said some Chinese militarists were reported boasting they were not afraid of Japan because 50,000 Soviet troops were waiting to resist a Japanese advance.

The Daily Mail correspondent said all Japan feared a clash with Soviet Russia was inevitable, and that Japan would not heed the League of Nations demand to withdraw occupation troops by November 16.

CONTINUE EFFORTS TO LINK TWINNING WITH BANK HOLDUP

ADDITIONAL WITNESSES TO VIEW HIBBING MAN HELD IN MENOMINEE SLAYING

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Determined to investigate every possibility that Walter Twinning, 25, Hibbing, may have been connected with the holdup of the Kraft State Bank of Menominee, Wis., and subsequent killing of James Kraft, assistant cashier, Wisconsin authorities expected to bring additional witnesses of the robbery to Duluth today.

Two bookkeepers of the Menominee bank, Ruby Kraft and Mrs. Alice Schaefer, failed to identify Twinning yesterday. Half a dozen other Wisconsin officials and witnesses of the robbery have viewed Twinning without definitely linking him to the crime.

Twinning was arrested in Minneapolis Friday by Sheriff Emil Erickson on a warrant charging assault upon a Carlton county girl.

Twinning was known to be a close acquaintance of Frank Webber, one of the bandit gang of four which held up the bank. Webber's body was found near Menominee where his comrades had thrown it from their automobile after gunfire by vigilantes had fatally wounded two of them.

PRODUCTION GAINS AND OTHER HOPEFUL INDICATIONS SEEN

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT REPORTED FROM ALL SECTIONS INDICATING CONFIDENCE

New York, Nov. 2.—(UP)—A growing confidence inspired some business quarters today in the wake of higher grain and crude oil prices; signs of increased steel production and indications that the banking structure had at last become stabilized.

Predictions of $1 wheat and $1 crude oil sent the southwest to work this morning with the hope that the long business depression in this section had at last turned.

The individual east and middle west were encouraged by another upturn in steel operations and indications that further improvement would come later this month when the larger automobile companies start new models.

On the Pacific coast salmon prices were restored to their old levels, while

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—(UP)—An order for $1,000,000 worth of steel rails has been let by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company to the Tennessee Coal and Railroad Co., Birmingham, Whiteford, R. Cole, L. & N. president, said today.

In milling centers, flour mills were taking advantage of the already sharp increase in wheat prices to raise flour prices.

Of more importance were the indications that the country's banks were rapidly getting into position where they could aid business recovery. Government officials emphasized the importance of the signs of less currency hoarding and the subsiding of the attacks on the American dollar abroad. While Wall street was not as sanguine as were the agricultural sections, stock prices rose further and were within striking distance of the highs reached immediately following announcement of the Hoover economic plan. The bull side of the market, however, continued to receive additional adherents. Particular strength was noted in shares of companies operating in the wheat belt and in the oil business.

Since October 5, when prices touched their lows, the combined value of the wheat, corn and cotton crops advanced more than a half billion dollars.

Saturday's advance in mid-continent crude oil prices, according to Tulsa satisticians, adds more than $100,000 daily to the value of production. If the advance becomes general, producers look for a $1,000,000 daily increase in revenues compared with the July low prices.

LAVAL TO ARRANGE WORLD CONFERENCE EARLY IN DECEMBER

FRENCH PREMIER GIVEN BIG OVATION ON RETURN TO FRANCE

Le Havre, France, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Premier Pierre Laval returned today from the United States, voicing his confidence that "France will keep the faith" on plans for international collaboration discussed at Washington.

He announced his plans to arrange an international conference on reparations revision early in December.

Hailed by a blare of bands and shouts of a crowd that cheered him as a conquering hero, the smart, smiling premier landed on French soil with the knowledge that he had firmly upheld the policies of his government abroad.

"Primarily the conversations in Washington resulted in mutual agreement for consultation before political action in the future. This will permit France liberal action in Europe."

"I want to assure Americans that France will keep the faith. I will personally invite parliament to take the initiative possibly in audacious measures for rapprochement with Germany, and in other steps to rehabilitate Europe. President Hoover stressed, and I agree, that recovery depends on helping Germany to get on her feet."

"France is willing to go far. She asks only the loyal efforts of Germany. If it is decided that the reparations burden is too great, France is willing to converse in an effort to reduce all inter-governmental debts (all debts owed the United States.) But I must stress that France and Belgium must be paid in full for the material damages of the war."

ALARM FELT OVER REPORTED SECRET RUSS-CHINA PACT

JAPANESE ADVANCES AGAINST POINTS UNDER RUSSIAN INFLUENCE ALSO NOTED

London, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Japanese military advances against two points within "the Russian sphere of influence" in Manchuria and a "secret Chinese-Russian" treaty were reported today in alarming dispatches to the London newspapers concerning war threats in China.

The Daily Express correspondent at Tokio said the Japanese infantrymen enroute from Kium to Taonan were moving with "extreme caution" and under protection of strict censorship on news dispatches.

The Soviet, warned last week by Japan against mobilization of its troops in Manchurian territory, was reported "in a belligerent attitude."

The Daily Mail correspondent at Tokio reported that Japanese were threatening to advance northward from Kirin province because Chinese troops in northern Manchuria had defied a Japanese ultimatum to repair a damaged railroad bridge. The bridge was wrecked last week by Japanese aviators who said Chinese had fired on them. The ultimatum will expire tomorrow.

Preparations were reported started at Mukden, the Manchurian capital, to send a powerful Japanese force to "unknown destinations." It also was said Chinese were preparing to seize the Japanese consulate at Tsitsihar, in northern Manchuria.

The Daily Mail quoted a message from Port Arthur saying a secret Chinese-Russian agreement had been reached, under which the Chinese government head, Chiang Kai-Shek, undertook to resume diplomatic relations with Russia if Moscow promised not to interfere in affairs in inner Mongolia. The dispatch said some Chinese militarists were reported boasting they were not afraid of Japan because 50,000 Soviet troops were waiting to resist a Japanese advance.

The Daily Mail correspondent said all Japan feared a clash with Soviet Russia was inevitable, and that Japan would not heed the League of Nations demand to withdraw occupation troops by November 16.

CONTINUE EFFORTS TO LINK TWINNING WITH BANK HOLDUP

ADDITIONAL WITNESSES TO VIEW HIBBING MAN HELD IN MENOMINEE SLAYING

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Determined to investigate every possibility that Walter Twining, 25, Hibbing, may have been connected with the holdup of the Kraft State Bank of Menominee, Wis., and subsequent killing of James Kraft, assistant cashier, Wisconsin authorities expected to bring additional witnesses of the robbery to Duluth, today.

Two bookkeepers of the Menominee bank, Ruby Kraft and Mrs. Alice Schaefer, failed to identify Twining yesterday. Half a dozen other Wisconsin officials and witnesses of the robbery have viewed Twining without definitely linking him to the crime.

Twining was arrested in Minneapolis Friday by Sheriff Emil Erickson on a warrant charging assault upon a Carlton county girl.

Twining was known to be a close acquaintance of Frank Webber, one of the bandit gang of four which held up the bank. Webber's body was found near Menominee where his comrades had thrown it from their automobile after gunfire by vigilantes had fatally wounded two of them.

PRODUCTION GAINS AND OTHER HOPEFUL INDICATIONS SEEN

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT REPORTED FROM ALL SECTIONS INDICATING CONFIDENCE

New York, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—A growing confidence inspired some business quarters today in the wake of higher grain and crude oil prices; signs of increased steel production and indications that the banking structure had at last become stabilized.

Predictions of $1 wheat and $1 crude oil sent the southwest to work this morning with the hope that the long business depression in this section had at last turned.

The individual east and middle west were encouraged by another upturn in steel operations and indications that further improvement would come later this month when the larger automobile companies start new models.

On the Pacific coast salmon prices were restored to their old levels, while

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—An order for $1,000,000 worth of steel rails has been let by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company to the Tennessee Coal and Railroad Co., Birmingham, Whiteford R. Cole, L. & N. president, said today.

In milling centers, flour mills were taking advantage of the already sharp increase in wheat prices to raise flour prices.

Of more importance were the indications that the country's banks were rapidly getting into position where they could aid business recovery. Government officials emphasized the importance of the signs of less currency hoarding and the subsiding of the attacks on the American dollar abroad.

While Wall street was not as sanguine as were the agricultural sections, stock prices rose further and were within striking distance of the highs reached immediately following announcement of the Hoover economic plan. The bull side of the market, however, continued to receive additional adherents. Particular strength was noted in shares of companies operating in the wheat belt and in the oil business.

Since October 5, when prices touched their lows, the combined value of the wheat, corn and cotton crops advanced more than a half billion dollars.

Saturday's advance in mid-continent crude oil prices, according to Tulsa satisticians, adds more than $100,000 daily to the value of production. If the advance becomes general, producers look for a $1,000,000 daily increase in revenues compared with the July low prices.

LAVAL TO ARRANGE WORLD CONFERENCE EARLY IN DECEMBER

FRENCH PREMIER GIVEN BIG OVATION ON RETURN TO FRANCE

Le Havre, France, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Premier Pierre Laval returned today from the United States, voicing his confidence that "France will keep the faith" on plans for international collaboration discussed at Washington.

He announced his plans to arrange an international conference on reparations revision early in December. Hailed by a blare of bands and shouts of a crowd that cheered him as a conquering hero, the smart, smiling premier landed on French soil with the knowledge that he had firmly upheld the policies of his government abroad.

Primarily the conversations in Washington resulted in mutual agreement for consultation before political action in the future. This will permit France liberal action in Europe.

"I want to assure Americans that France will keep the faith. I will personally invite parliament to take the initiative possibly in audacious measures for rapprochement with Germany, and in other steps to rehabilitate Europe. President Hoover stressed, and I agree, that recovery depends on helping Germany to get on her feet. "France is willing to go far. She asks only the loyal efforts of Germany. If it is decided that the reparations burden is too great, France is willing to converse in an effort to reduce all inter-governmental debts (all inter-governmental debts include war debts owed the United States.) But I must stress that France and Belgium must be paid in full for the material damages of the war."

FARBMAN MASTERY OF VIOLIN AGAIN CAPTIVATES CITY

PROGRAM GIVES ARTIST OPPORTUNITY TO DISPLAY VERSATILE TALENT

By MISS MARY F. TORNSTROM
The usual enthusiastic audience that always comes out to hear Harry Farbmans play was present in force at the high school Sunday afternoon. The fact that this was Mr. Farbmans' third appearance for the Brainerd Musical Club testifies to the real interest and appreciation held by the club members for this promising young violinist. In no way did he fall the interest of the audience, for every selection was played with the same consistent appreciation of the beauty inherent in the music and at no time did he slight any smallest portion of the score.

Responds to Encores
Three groups and several encores in response to enthusiastic applause were given by Mr. Farbmans. The first group, Grieg's very beautiful Sonata No. 1 Opus 8, was a very fine duet for piano and violin, in which Melvin Zedler shared honors, for the pianist was given ample opportunity to show his skill with his instrument. The various themes were introduced by the piano and then carried on to a colorful conclusion by the violin. Whether Mr. Zedler was playing the plaintive tender notes in the introduction, or thundering out the heavy notes in the conclusion, he proved an admirable foil for the skill evinced by Mr. Farbmans. Both men showed themselves masters of their art, and held the breathless attention of their audiences as they ran the whole gamut of emotions: the stirring notes of speed and action blended suddenly into sweet and delicate sounds where both violin and piano played single tender notes only to shift again to a wild and vivacious passage.

Lalo's Work Presented
The second group consisted of the three movements of Lalo's "Symphony Espagnole," a selection which started with much splendid work by the piano, shifted to the violin as the dominating instrument and in the second movement became a minor and measured march of sound which increased in tempo to a stirring finish which ended on an exquisitely prolonged note on the violin. The third movement, the Rondo, gave the two men opportunity to show their ability at the light and airy touch, for the whole action was a thing of delicate beauty in which Mr. Farbmans showed his skill with the lighter tones. Tchaikovsky's "Andante Cantabile" was a thing of beauty and loveliness; Kreisler's "Tambourine Chinois" was a selection of speed and action, light touching of keys and of strings, of energy and enthusiasm; Juon's "Berceuse" was soft and tender, ending in sweet and lovely notes, while the concluding number, Bazzini's "Dance of the Goblins" was thoroughly all that the name implies. The mad swirling of tiny bodies was most vividly portrayed and gave an excellent opportunity for Mr. Farbmans to demonstrate his skill in fingering.

Sentimentality and Zest
The encores were as varied as the three main groups. Chaminade's "Serenade" was just that—Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me" was played with a sentimental touch, and the last, Corngold's March from "Much Ado About Nothing" ended the program with just that dash that leaves the audience enthusiastic.

Mr. Farbmans always charms with his modesty. Add to this interest and affection that the musical club members had for him a very real appreciation of his growing skill as an artist, and the reason for his returns is obvious. He, for his part, was most enthusiastic over the auditorium and expressed his delight over so charming a place in which to play.

RETIRED BRAINERD CONTRACTOR DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD AT 2 O'CLOCK WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Andreas Magnus Peterson, 77, retired contractor and pioneer resident of Brainerd community, died at 1:40 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's hospital. He had been ill about six weeks.

The deceased came directly from Sweden to Brainerd resuming his work in this community as a bricklayer and contractor, which trade he had learned in Oslo, Norway.

Peterson was born in Dahlsland, Sweden, June 4, 1854.

On September 29, 1882, he was married to Maren Torgerson in Brainerd. His wife preceded him in death six years ago.

In 1898, Peterson retired from business and moved to his farm in Oak Lawn township where he has resided since.

The deceased was a charter member of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church, Brainerd.

Surviving him are four children, Maurice Peterson, Golden Valley, N. D.; Paul Peterson, Dodge, N. D.; Bert Peterson, Long Lake township, Crow Wing county and Mrs. Wallace McCulloch, Brainerd; 11 grandchildren and an aged sister in Norway.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church, Rev. O. L. Bolstad, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery.

The body will be taken to the church at 11 o'clock. There it may be viewed until the time of the funeral after which the remains will not be open for view.

LINCOLN SCHOOL

PUNCTUALITY IS NOTABLE FEATURE

FOUR CLASSES REPORT NO PUPIL TARDY; ATTENDANCE, 97 PERCENT

Four rooms in the Lincoln school had no tardy marks for October, according to the school report as announced today by Miss Alta Franklin, principal. These rooms were the classes of the following teachers: Misses Edie Drexler, Georgia Brown, Nora A. Hegsted, Frances Lawson.

In September six teachers of the school reported no tardiness, these in the rooms of the Misses Drexler, Bessie C. Murphy, Lawson, Irene C. Lowey, Margaret Johnson, Franklin.

The percentage of attendance for both months averaged 97.

Miss Franklin's report continues:

"The B 4th has new geography note books, 'The Far North' and the A 4th, 'Switzerland'."

"We certainly had some nice Halloween parties last Friday."

"The Sixth grade wishes to thank Mr. Nelson for the colorful Pilgrim picture that he drew for their room. It is in chalk work depicting the 1620 era."

"Let's boost for the next P. T. A. meeting the evening of November 10."

"A special spell test called 'The Morrison McCall Spell Test' was given in various schools in the city last week in all grades above the second. Our building had a high average."

LEGIONNAIRES STILL ON THE FIRING LINE

THIRTEEN YEARS FOLLOWING ARMISTICE FINDS THEM STILL ACTIVE

Thirteen years after the Armistice one million Legionnaires are still on the firing line but instead of dealing death and destruction they are helping to reduce the slaughter of 100,000 citizens whose lives are annually snuffed out by accidents.

In Minnesota for instance, F. Bon Andreen of New Ulm, state Legion safety chairman points out, the Legion's 478 posts have installed 'protect Minnesota children' road signs where motorists entering towns and cities will see them. Now they are organizing local school patrols so that mothers and fathers need not worry about the safety of their little ones.

Chairman Andreen declares that the uniform plan for operation of Minnesota school patrols provides an excellent means of impressing on the minds of all the constant need for care by those who drive machines and those who might be the victims of careless driving. The uniform Minnesota plan was created jointly by the State Highway Department and Police Patrol, the Department of Education, Minnesota Safety Council and The American Legion.

"There are three objectives behind the school patrol," Mr. Andreen states. "First to save life by preventing accidents; second to make safety instruction vital and concrete; third to impress the adult population with a dramatic object lesson on safety. The school patrol attains these objectives, as has been demonstrated where such patrols exist."

The functioning of school patrols in every Minnesota community would materially reduce the state's annual death toll, Chairman Andreen believes. He points out the good work already done in organizing patrols at Brainerd, Chatfield, Brownton, New Ulm, Maple Plain, Glenwood, North Mankato, Forest Lake, Rice, Jackson, Foley, Milaca, Benson, Fairmont, Halstad, Osakis, Ronville, Baudette, Springfield, Oremount, Spring Grove, Elk River, New Prague, Hastings and other points.

All told, 176 American Legion posts throughout Minnesota are now engaged in perfecting their plans for the formation of school patrols, according to Mr. Andreen, in charge of the statewide Legion safety program.

SHORT DUCK SEASON BLAMED IN DECREASE OF GAME LICENSES

COMPARISON REVEALS 700 FEWER SMALL GAME LICENSES SOLD THIS YEAR

The short duck season was blamed here today for the drop of approximately 700 licenses in Crow Wing county in comparison with 1930 figures.

With the shooting of ducks at a close and few licenses to be called for, the season recorded 1500 small game licenses, it was learned today from Henry Krause, deputy county auditor.

Last year a total of 2200 small game licenses were issued by the auditor's office.

A Course that has run true in prosperity or depression

When we first embarked on the seas of retail business, our policy outlined the selling of only such merchandise as we honestly knew to be of worth and quality. We endeavored to keep the price of such quality as low as careful buying and handling made possible. With "Price" as the salient selling feature on every hand now we have insisted that our value standards be maintained. Our prices have been lowered greatly as the result of lower material and manufacturing costs—not at the sacrifice of quality. Comparison of values, not mere prices, will show consistent economy here.

Makers of Vicks VapoRub Announce a New Plan for Home-Control of Colds

News Comes With Development of a New Product; a Unique Companion to the Famous Treatment, Based on a New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Makes Possible a Further Reduction of the Family "Colds-Tax" This Winter In Time, Money, Health.

A quarter century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern external method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—latest development of the Vicks chemists—introduces a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these perfect allies make possible the new Vicks Plan for better "Control of Colds" and reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" in time, money and health.

Here is the Vicks Plan of Control:

1.—BEFORE a Cold Starts. On exposure to colds or to any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold, etc.—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—at that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—AFTER a Cold Starts.

At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time or place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops—medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Offer to Vicks Users

The makers want every user of Vicks VapoRub to try Vicks Nose Drops. Free trial samples of the Nose Drops were sent every druggist in the United States—but if you failed to get yours, buy a bottle today and try out the Vicks Plan for better Home-Control of Colds as directed. If you are not delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money without question.

All told, 176 American Legion posts throughout Minnesota are now engaged in perfecting their plans for the formation of school patrols, according to Mr. Andreen, in charge of the state-wide Legion safety program.

Chairman Andreen declares that the uniform plan for operation of Minnesota school patrols provides an excellent means of impressing on the minds of all the constant need for care by those who drive machines and those who might be the victims of careless driving. The uniform Minnesota plan was created jointly by the State Highway Department and Police Patrol, the Department of Education, Minnesota Safety Council and The American Legion.

"There are three objectives behind the school patrol," Mr. Andreen states. "First to save life by preventing accidents; second to make safety instruction vital and concrete; third to impress the adult population with a dramatic object lesson on safety. The school patrol attains these objectives, as has been demonstrated where such patrols exist."

The functioning of school patrols in every Minnesota community would materially reduce the state's annual death toll, Chairman Andreen believes.

He points out the good work already done in organizing patrols at Brainerd, Chatfield, Brownton, New Ulm, Maple Plain, Glenwood, North Mankato, Forest Lake, Rice, Jackson, Foley, Milaca, Benson, Fairmont, Halstad, Osakis, Ronville, Baudette, Springfield, Rosemount, Spring Grove, Elk River, New Prague, Hastings and other points.

LEGIONNAIRES STILL ON THE FIRING LINE

THIRTEEN YEARS FOLLOWING ARMISTICE FINDS THEM STILL ACTIVE

Thirteen years after the Armistice one million Legionnaires are still on the firing line but instead of dealing death and destruction they are helping to reduce the slaughter of 100,000 citizens whose lives are annually snuffed out by accidents.

In Minnesota for instance, F. Bon Andreen of New Ulm, state Legion safety chairman points out, the Legion's 478 posts have installed "protect Minnesota children" road signs where motorists entering towns and cities will see them. Now they are organizing local school patrols so that mothers and fathers need not worry about the safety of their little ones.

Chairman Andreen declares that the uniform plan for operation of Minnesota school patrols provides an excellent means of impressing on the minds of all the constant need for care by those who drive machines and those who might be the victims of careless driving. ## CHILDREN AND HALLOWE'EN--

Remember when you were young and Hallowe'en found you up to your ears in mischief. Now that the goblins have flitted and the witches have swished their brooms for another year it is safe to hark back to "those good old days." That the children of today have more respect for right is strikingly told in the story of this year's Hallowe'en. Beyond the smearing of windows with soap practically no damage, or any of any consequence, was reported. Years back it was not unusual to read where a wagon had been hoisted to the top of a barn. Pulling trolleys on a street car line was also a favorite pastime.

Brainerd saw little that could be condemned as out of the way over this year's Hallowe'en. Plenty of goblins, witches and other grotesque characters haunted the streets but there was little evidence of united action for tearing down fences as you will remember was in vogue when you were a child.

It wouldn't be fair to say that the children are receiving better training now but it is not unreasonable to believe that children are taking more cognizance of right and wrong.

You may call them those "good old days" but when you look back and think you will readily change your mind to the belief that, after all, the present era with regard to children is vastly different.

THEATER ANSWERS CHALLENGE OF NEED--

Service is an integral part of a community's makeup and, literally, it represents its stock in trade. This also applies to institutions. Citizens also are included but in varied form.

But, to achieve this distinction a community must have the whole-hearted co-operation of the people living within its environs. Integrity of the service of the people and institutions of Brainerd is at stake in the Community Relief Fund drive which will be launched soon to relieve the distressed and suffering during the coming winter.

Brainerd is not lacking in serviceable institutions and citizens. This is strikingly depicted in the Paramount Theater's answer to the challenge of need in connection with the relief drive. Even before the relief fund organization met in its initial session, the theater through its manager, Harry Greenberg, offered the use of the theater for a benefit performance, a similar event of which aided materially in putting across a successful drive last year.

Formal announcement of the benefit performance was withheld in respect to and so as not to interfere with the relief organization's plan of action. Now that the unit has been organized, the theater has announced the benefit performance for November 19.

Conceived and fostered by the theater, the benefit should cause the citizenry to rise up en masse in support of this worthy effort.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS--

It is quite encouraging to learn that railroad grade crossing accidents in the last two years have been reduced by almost 20 per cent. This is the report made the other day to the annual safety congress at Chicago by its committee on prevention of railroad highway accidents.

So much the more gratifying does this report appear in the light of the further news that this accident reduction came about despite an increase in automobile registrations in 1930, an even higher increase in the amount of gasoline used, which means total miles traveled, and a 5 per cent increase in the total number of automotive accidents in the country.

There is still much to be done toward eliminating the railroad crossing accident, despite this reduction, and the railways combined with the states and municipalities are bending all their efforts toward this goal. But they will never be successful without the co-operation of motorists who use the highways and who, it has been shown, flagrantly disregard warnings of approaching trains.

This same committee points out that the passenger automobile is involved in more than 70 per cent of the grade crossing accidents, that motor trucks come next with 13.6 per cent of the accidents. These figures demonstrate more than any words could the utter lack of care and responsibility on the part of the average owner driver.

No other arguments are needed, beyond these figures, to convince the passenger car driver that he is endangering his life and those of his passengers when he fails to stop at a railroad crossing and make certain the tracks are clear before going ahead.

Little time is lost in slowing down or even waiting for a train to pass. But an entire lifetime may be lost by taking a chance.

USE OF VACCINATION--

The warning that large parts of the United States are in danger of epidemics of smallpox—a warning recently given the American Public Health Association by a Metropolitan Life Insurance Company expert—comes as a surprise to a nation which had supposed smallpox a disease that had been conquered.

The trouble, it seems, is that in many neighborhoods there is still a strong public sentiment against vaccination. It is precisely in these neighborhoods that smallpox is most prevalent. It is noteworthy that the most thickly-populated eastern states had the fewest cases of the disease.

Vaccination offers a sure method of fighting smallpox. Any community that makes an intelligent and determined use of this method has little to fear. But any community that refuses to use it is flirting with danger.

At a recent food show in Los Angeles there was displayed a nice shiny machine which turns out pancakes automatically—turns them out in large quantities, too, delivering 35 on the platter every minute.

This, no doubt, is a triumph of modern ingenuity. Yet there were certain housewives, back on the farm in the old days, who—while they might have longed earnestly for such a machine—would hardly have been impressed by its productive capacity.

Cooking breakfast for a dozen hungry men in harvest time, the farmer's wife learned things about turning out pancakes in quantity that might make an inventor pause. The whole stove, properly greased and heated red-hot, became a griddle. The cakes went to the table in great stacks. Perhaps no housewife ever made as many as 35 a minute—but the figure, among the experts, certainly wasn't far below that mark.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Rich Mrs. Jupiter is robbed and murdered during the engagement party she gives her secretary, MARY HARKNESS. Mary's serenade brother, EDDIE, may have been in the house at the murder hour, and has disappeared. The thief failed to get the famous Jupiter rubies.

Eddie is run down and killed as he goes to meet Mary. INSPECTOR KANE drops the case believing Eddie the murderer. MR. JUPITER and DIRK believe the same.

BOWEN of the Star discovers a rat-trunk snatcher and crook called THE FLY to whom Eddie owed money. Bowen gives Mary a hint he found in the Jupiter house the night of the murder. It is her brother's. The butler recognizes it as having been worn by a "gentleman" he ejected that night.

Dirk forbids Mary to go on with the investigation because of the notoriety. They quarrel, make up and Mary promises to marry him at once. While shopping for her trousseau, Mary's taxi crashes into a building.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

WHEN Mary became conscious someone was shouting. "Bring some brandy for this lady!" and moving her arms about and slapping her hands. This, she later learned, was merely an attempt to discover whether or not she had broken any bones. At the moment, however, the indignity of her position—she was lying on a couple of chairs—brought her upright and awake more quickly than the burning liquor they were forcing down her throat.

She was in a restaurant, apparently. About her hovered anxious faces—a waiter, a fat man who turned out to be the proprietor, and a nice-looking policeman who kept saying "Just a little accident, you're all right. Take it easy!"

Well, she was taking it easy, she thought fretfully. Her head ached fiercely from the jar when the taxi crashed into the building but otherwise she was all right, and she wanted to go home.

She made this wish known to the policeman, who held her arm firmly as if he feared she might go faint and drop again.

"What happened?" she asked. "Truck going the wrong way on a one-way street," he told her. "You can't go out that way, lady." He moved between her and the door.

"Why can't I? What's out there?" "They're cleaning up the mess. The cab's all smashed, and there's a lot of broken glass. Besides, there's probably a mob of people waiting to see the 'corpse'—Say," he broke off, "you want to thank that driver, lady! He saved your life!"

"Oh, I will!" Mary exclaimed. "Where is he?"

"They've taken him home. He's not bad hurt. I'll give you his name, if you want—"

"Please do. Oh, but—my packages! Where are they?" The fat proprietor indicated a pile of boxes neatly stacked on a nearby table. They were crushed a little, but not damaged. She thanked the fat man profusely. How careful and kind they had all been!

"I can't thank you enough!" she told him happily. "Those are my wedding clothes!"

"Ah-ah! So!" He retreated as she tried to press a bill into his hand. "Nah, nah, give it to Tim, there—he has a big family!" The bill she pressed into the policeman's hand met no protest.

"Want to try it?" he indicated the front door. "I'll go first—"

"Oh, no! Isn't there some other way—"

The policeman called "Hey, Jack!" and the fat man bustled up again. He looked more than a little worried, as well he might be.

for the sidewalk in front of his place was a morass of splintered wood and shattered glass. The place was one of the innumerable speak-easies housed in the basements of old brownstone fronts. And the proprietor was hardly convinced yet that what had happened was a mere traffic accident. Accidents in Mr. Jack Shay's life usually had a deeper significance. Fearing gang warfare as he did, it was no wonder he appeared far more nerve-racked by the occurrence than Mary, the victim, did.

"Come this way," he invited, and Mary and the stalwart officer followed him to a door at the rear of the long room. Here the fat man knocked, entered, spoke a few words, and then held the door open to admit the others. "O. K., come on through."

THE room was a small, dark dining-room. Half a dozen men sat about a wine-spotted tablecloth, smoking and drinking. A sudden silence, like paralysis, seized the group. As Mary and the officer appeared, one man, tall and foreign-looking—was he merely well-tanned?—rose from his chair abruptly, then sank back again.

Mary smiled slightly and inclined her head in perfunctory recognition of what she took to be an act of politeness.

They passed through the room, out another door into a black hole of a hallway, and entered the back door of a drugstore opening on a side street. Here the officer deposited her packages into a taxi, and helped her in.

"I'll give you that driver's name," he said, taking out a pad and pencil.

"Do. And the other man's name, and the address of his restaurant," she added. "Perhaps I can take a party there for dinner sometime and pay him back that way."

"Don't worry about Jack," the policeman replied. "He don't want anything you could give him—unless it's a bullet-proof vest."

"Oh! Why?" "The policeman had finished writing, and tore off the sheet and handed it to Mary without reply.

"I'll have to take your name and address as a witness," he said.

"Oh, keep me out of it!" Mary begged as she handed him her card. "My—the man I'm going to marry would be furious!" This wasn't quite true but it was true enough. The policeman did not protest when the taxi-driver drove off rapidly.

She was not much delayed, and felt no worse for the misadventure except a heightening of the sense of excitement that had been thrilling through her veins all day.

A glance at the clock on her mantel showed nearly 6 o'clock, and Dirk would come before she could freshen up and change unless she hurried. Fatigue vanished magically as she dashed about. Lured by curiosity, the fumbling Della came in to help, and to her own surprise as much as the maid's, Mary seized her about the waist and waltzed about the room with her.

"Della, Della, I'm never to be married tomorrow! But I must tell a soul!"

"Tomorrow is it? Oh, Miss Mary! And does Mr. Jupiter know?"

"I don't know how to tell him. I promised to stay, but—oh, if Mr. Bruce would only come!" "Ah, that young spalpeen!"

But the packages were a more potent attraction than the derelict Bruce—they forgot him in the joy of snapping string and burrowing into tissue paper. One simple little dress was all she was looking for,

to wear this evening, but somehow it seemed necessary to open all the boxes.

One revealed a little black dinner dress that was a love, all cobwebby lace at the top with a skirt made of stiff ruffles of net. They both hugged it, held it off and caressed it with their eyes. Mary had bought it for dining and dancing on shipboard, but she was tempted to wear it tonight. After all, could any night of her life be more important? Her last "date." There were embroidered slippers to match, and a white evening wrap. Mightn't they be going out to dance a little? Dirk hadn't said.

Della made her decision for her by whisking away the empty box.

"You think I should, Della?"

"Indeed, you should!" And that was that.

SHE had just taken a quick shower and given her hair a swift brushing that made her whole body feel tingly and rested, and slipped the black dress over newly bought underthings of incredible softness, when the maid came in, quite breathless with chagrin.

"Oh, Miss Harkness, I didn't hear you come in! A Mr. Bowen has been calling you repeatedly. He has some important information for you. He gave me his number and—"

Mary took the card she proffered and went thoughtfully to the telephone.

Bowen's voice sounded very clipped and business-like over the wire—there was no sign of the whistling companion of yesterday's meeting. His tone impressed her as much as his words.

"Miss Harkness, the man we were speaking of is in New York. Not hiding, exactly, but—in retirement, and seems to have a good deal on his mind."

"Yes?" "The talk is that he did both jobs. And underworld talk is usually pretty accurate. At least, I think this is. We can safely assume he is the man we are after. You understand, don't you? Rotten trying to talk over the telephone—"

"What—what shall we do?" Mary asked. She sat down suddenly, surprised to find herself shaking with excitement.

"What can we do, you mean," he corrected her. "God, I don't know. Several things. I don't want to miff this. Neither do you. I take it. Ordinarily I'd say take him in on the evidence we've got, and a trust Kane to third-degree a confession out of him. But I'm afraid—Tell you frankly, this bird has a rep for being slicker than an eel. He's been in a good many tight scrapes and wiggled out, legally. He's got a record, but that was years ago. They haven't pinned anything on him lately."

"I don't know, but it seems to me we ought to let him up so tight he can't get away before we try to make a pinch. That's what I want to talk to you about. I've got a swell idea—look, is there somewhere I can see you?"

"Why, I—?" How could she see him tonight? Yet it might be her only opportunity. Tomorrow she would be married and gone.

"I'm just trying to think—I have an engagement tonight, but it may be quite late."

"I've got a night assignment or I'd come there. But I'd like to see you—something I want to talk over with you. Could you come in and have dinner with me some place?"

Mary thought rapidly. If Dirk was still at the office she could go in and meet Bowen and Dirk could call for her and bring her home. She would really see him much sooner that way. And so it was arranged.

"Then come to this address"—she wrote down the number he gave her. "I'll be there when you come."

DIRK had gone out to dinner, the bookkeeper said, when she called his office, but would be back. Mary gave him the address of the restaurant.

Mr. Jupiter had not come in—Spence reported his master had stayed at the Yacht Club for dinner with some of his old cronies. He had Tom, but in deference to her new clothes she called one of the other chauffeurs and drove into town in state. She had lost faith in taxicabs.

Bowen stepped out of the shadow of a flight of stone steps to greet her. It was not until they had entered the place that Mary recognized it.

"Why, this is where I was this afternoon!" she exclaimed as they threaded their way between tables to one in the angle of the wall. Half a dozen persons, all men, were scattered about the room, eating, drinking.

Mary was about to relate the story of the taxi accident, when she caught sight of an unforgettably ugly face reflected in a sideboard mirror. It was Mike, the waiter.

"Why, there's—" she began, but Bowen's gesture stopped her.

"Better not," he said. "Nothing to be scared of. I just don't understand all I know about this place, that's all. I'm hoping to find out something tonight."

They served them with an impassive countenance. The fat proprietor looked in from an adjoining room, nodded to Bowen, failed to recognize Mary in her evening attire, apparently, and slipped back.

"That's Jack Shay," Bowen told her in a low tone. "Jack's scared stiff. Somebody slammed into the front of his place this afternoon, and he hasn't stopped shaking yet. Jack can't figure out what they're after him for. Mike tells me, but he's gonna put the bum's rush on some guy he's got laying up upstairs. Thinks it's him they're after. Gang stuff, probably."

Mary burst out laughing and told about the accident.

"Well, keep it under your hat," Bowen advised. "Let Jack worry a little, it won't hurt him. Teach him not to let those bums hang around here the way he does. Jack's a right guy, but he's always taking it on the knuckles for some other guy. He's a regular grandpa to all the crooks in Christendom. When they get in trouble, they take it on the lam for Jack's, and he puts 'em up till they can get out of town or it blows over. All I had to do was tell him Mike had a record, and he took him on. Heart as big as a beer-keg."

He grinned. "That's why we're dining in this dump tonight instead of in a joint that would fit those swell clothes of yours. I'm eating off the cuff this week." Then to avoid the solicitude in her eyes he added quickly, "I wonder who it is he's got upstairs? Vivian Gordon's murderer, of the guy that shot Rothstein?" He was being funny, now, and Mary smiled appreciatively.

Mike, the waiter, totaled up the bill, scribbled on a pad, and laid the sheet of paper face down on the table. Bowen picked it up and prepared to sign it. His face changed color as he read. He handed it to Mary.

"The fly is here," she read. (To Be Continued)

FARMER'S PRAYER

The following article taken from Budget-Gazette, a Missouri newspaper was received in a communication to the editor of The Daily Dispatch. Whenever the writer's name is inclosed, The Daily Dispatch will reprint their letters but the communication must bear their signature as an evidence of good faith.

"After having nearly a hundred requests for copies of The Budget-Gazette containing 'The Farmer's Prayer' and all the copies of that issue having been sold, we have concluded to reprint the prayer. This prayer was submitted by Charles Wyatt of Bucklin township, a farmer, who apparently is feeling these times of depression and offered up his prayer to Mr. Hoover for relief. Some of the requests came from Indiana, Ohio and Texas, as per letters on file in this office.

"Following is the article as it appeared in Wednesday, September 16, issue: 'O Mighty Hoover, who art in Washington, when not fishing on the Rapidan. Thy name is pants. Thy will and the will of thy campaign contributors be done in the rest of the country as it is done in Washington.

"Give us this day our daily bread—and bowl of free soup—for our turnip greens and sweet potatoes are almost gone. Forgive us our debts, and if you can't forgive them, for the love of Mike help us get a job so we can pay them. Thou knowest, O Mighty Hoover, that thy subjects are dumb, so dumb that we believed your campaign promises. It we hadn't been so dumb you wouldn't be President. And since you know how dumb we are, have mercy on us, for our pockets are empty, also our stomachs. Some of us voted for you in the belief that you would continue our great prosperity, and behold, our great prosperity has gone to the favored followers of Smoot and Grundy. Some of us voted for you because thy handmaiden Mabel told the preachers and the preachers told us we would go to hell if we voted for Al Smith. So we voted for you, and the country has been in a hell of a mess ever since."

"We thank thee, O Mighty Hoover, for the relief thou hast given the farmer, for thou hast relieved them of all they had except their debts and a few old clothes. We thank thee for the relief thou hast given the laboring man for thou hast relieved him of the necessity of rising early to get to his job. We thank thee that thou hast relieved us of the annoyance of factory whistles and the noise of turning wheels, for no whistles are blowing and no wheels are turning (except those in the heads of those who voted for thee).

"Thou annoiest our heads with oil—Isolen from the government oil lands—and we can't buy soap to wash it off because of the holy tariff. "Lead us not into temptation of high living lest we be taken to the hospital to be cured of gout, like one of thy famous supporters. Yea, though we walk through the valley of hard times and the shadow of starvation, we will fear no evil, for thou art with us and hath appointed many commissioners to watch over us.

"Hear us, O Mighty Hoover, and answer us! And may the squirrels nest in our hats if we are ever fool enough to follow another Jack o' Lantern labeled 'Republican Prosperity.' Thanking God that 'Hoover Prosperity' is gone, and that we may be on the road to better days. Amen."

Says Radio Has Not Helped Nation's Artistic Sense

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—(UP)—Dr. John J. Becker, St. Thomas college, today told the Minnesota Music Teachers Association that the radio had not contributed to the artistic development of the country.

He said he was not unmindful of the possibilities of the radio but he added these possibilities had not been realized.

"The radio has aroused a sort of morbid curiosity about good music but along with that it has made many an artist superficial," Dr. Becker said. "From the program we hear, it is apparent that the performers do not have time to prepare adequately."

CHILDREN AND HALLOWE'EN--

Remember when you were young and Hallowe'en found you up to your ears in mischief. Now that the goblins have flitted and the witches have swished their brooms for another year it is safe to hark back to "those good old days." That the children of today have more respect for right is strikingly told in the story of this year's Hallowe'en. Beyond the smearing of windows with soap practically no damage, or any of any consequence, was reported. Years back it was not unusual to read where a wagon had been hoisted to the top of a barn. Pulling trolleys on a street car line was also a favorite pastime.

Brainerd saw little that could be condemned as out of the way over this year's Hallowe'en. Plenty of goblins, witches and other grotesque characters haunted the streets but there was little evidence of united action for tearing down fences as you will remember was in vogue when you were a child.

It wouldn't be fair to say that the children are receiving better training now but it is not unreasonable to believe that children are taking more cognizance of right and wrong.

You may call them those "good old days" but when you look back and think you will readily change your mind to the belief that, after all, the present era with regard to children is vastly different.

THEATER ANSWERS CHALLENGE OF NEED--

Service is an integral part of a community's makeup and, literally, it represents its stock in trade. This also applies to institutions. Citizens also are included but in varied form.

But, to achieve this distinction a community must have the whole-hearted co-operation of the people living within its environs. Integrity of the service of the people and institutions of Brainerd is at stake in the Community Relief Fund drive which will be launched soon to relieve the distressed and suffering during the coming winter.

Brainerd is not lacking in serviceable institutions and citizens. This is strikingly depicted in the Paramount Theater's answer to the challenge of need in connection with the relief drive. Even before the relief fund organization met in its initial session, the theater through its manager, Harry Greenberg, offered the use of the theater for a benefit performance, a similar event of which aided materially in putting across a successful drive last year.

Formal announcement of the benefit performance was withheld in respect to and so as not to interfere with the relief organization's plan of action. Now that the unit has been organized, the theater has announced the benefit performance for November 19.

Conceived and fostered by the theater, the benefit should cause the citizenry to rise up en masse in support of this worthy effort.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS--

It is quite encouraging to learn that railroad grade crossing accidents in the last two years have been reduced by almost 20 per cent. This is the report made the other day to the annual safety congress at Chicago by its committee on prevention of railroad highway accidents.

So much the more gratifying does this report appear in the light of the further news that this accident reduction came about despite an increase in automobile registrations in 1930, an even higher increase in the amount of gasoline used, which means total miles traveled, and a 5 per cent increase in the total number of automotive accidents in the country.

There is still much to be done toward eliminating the railroad crossing accident, despite this reduction, and the railways combined with the states and municipalities are bending all their efforts toward this goal. But they will never be successful without the co-operation of motorists who use the highways and who, it has been shown, flagrantly disregard warnings of approaching trains.

This same committee points out that the passenger automobile is involved in more than 70 per cent of the grade crossing accidents, that motor trucks come next with 13.6 per cent of the accidents. These figures demonstrate more than any words could the utter lack of care and responsibility on the part of the average owner driver.

No other arguments are needed, beyond these figures, to convince the passenger car driver that he is endangering his life and those of his passengers when he fails to stop at a railroad crossing and make certain the tracks are clear before going ahead.

Little time is lost in slowing down or even waiting for a train to pass. But an entire lifetime may be lost by taking a chance.

USE OF VACCINATION--

The warning that large parts of the United States are in danger of epidemics of smallpox—a warning recently given the American Public Health Association by a Metropolitan Life Insurance Company expert—comes as a surprise to a nation which had supposed smallpox a disease that had been conquered.

The trouble, it seems, is that in many neighborhoods there is still a strong public sentiment against vaccination. It is precisely in these neighborhoods that smallpox is most prevalent. It is noteworthy that the most thickly-populated eastern states had the fewest cases of the disease.

Vaccination offers a sure method of fighting smallpox. Any community that makes an intelligent and determined use of this method has little to fear. But any community that refuses to use it is flirting with danger.

At a recent food show in Los Angeles there was displayed a nice shiny machine which turns out pancakes automatically—turns them out in large quantities, too, delivering 35 on the platter every minute.

This, no doubt, is a triumph of modern ingenuity. Yet there were certain housewives, back on the farm in the old days, who—while they might have longed earnestly for such a machine—would hardly have been impressed by its productive capacity.

Cooking breakfast for a dozen hungry men in harvest time, the farmer's wife learned things about turning out pancakes in quantity that might make an inventor pause. The whole stove, properly greased and heated red-hot, became a griddle. The cakes went to the table in great stacks. Perhaps no housewife ever made as many as 35 a minute—but the figure, among the experts, certainly wasn't far below that mark.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Rich Mrs. Jupiter is robbed and murdered during the engagement party she gives her secretary, MARY HARKNESS. Mary's scrapbook brother, EDDIE, may have been in the house at the murder hour, and has disappeared. The thief failed to get the famous Jupiter rubles.

Eddie is run down and killed as he goes to meet Mary. INSPECTOR KANE drops the case believing Eddie the murderer. MR. JUPITER and DIRK believe the same.

BOWEN of the Star discovers a racketeer gambler and crook called THE FLY to whom Eddie owed money. Bowen gives Mary a coat he found in the Jupiter house the night of the murder. It is her brother's. The butler recognizes it as having been worn by a "gate-crasher" he ejected that night.

Dirk forbids Mary to go on with the investigation because of the notoriety. They quarrel, make up and Mary promises to marry him at once. While shopping for her trousseau, Mary's taxi crashes into a building.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII

WHEN Mary became conscious someone was shouting. "Bring some brandy for this lady!" and moving her arms about and slapping her hands. This, she later learned, was merely an attempt to discover whether or not she had broken any bones. At the moment, however, the indignity of her position—she was lying on a couple of chairs—brought her upright and awake more quickly than the burning liquor they were forcing down her throat.

She was in a restaurant, apparently. About her hovered anxious faces—a waiter, a fat man who turned out to be the proprietor, and a nice-looking policeman who kept saying "Just a little accident, you're all right. Take it easy."

Well, she was taking it easy, she thought fretfully. Her head ached fiercely from the jar when the taxi crashed into the building but otherwise she was all right, and she wanted to go home.

She made this wish known to the policeman, who held her arm firmly as if he feared she might go faint and drop again.

"What happened?" she asked. "Truck going the wrong way on a one-way street," he told her. "You can't go out that way, lady." He moved between her and the door.

"Why can't I? What's out there?" "They're cleaning up the mess. The cab's all smashed, and there's a lot of broken glass. Besides, there's probably a mob of people waiting to see the 'corpse'—Say," he broke off, "you want to thank that driver, lady! He saved your life!"

"Oh, I will!" Mary exclaimed. "Where is he?"

"They've taken him home. He's not bad hurt. I'll give you his name, if you want—"

"Please do. Oh, but—my packages! Where are they?" The fat proprietor indicated a pile of boxes neatly stacked on a nearby table. They were crushed a little, but not damaged. She thanked the fat man profusely. How careful and kind they had all been!

"I can't thank you enough!" she told him happily. "Those are my wedding clothes!"

"Ah-ah! So!" He retreated as she tried to press a bill into his hand. "Nah, nah, give it to Tim, there—he has a big family!" The bill she pressed into the policeman's hand met no protest.

"Want to try it?" he indicated the front door. "I'll go first—"

"Oh, no! Isn't there some other way—"

The policeman called "Hey, Jack!" and the fat man bustled up again. He looked more than a little worried, as well he might be, for the sidewalk in front of his place was a morass of splintered wood and shattered glass. The place was one of the innumerable speak-easies housed in the basements of old brownstone fronts. And the proprietor was hardly convinced yet that what had happened was a mere traffic accident. Accidents in Mr. Jack Shay's life usually had a deeper significance. Fearing gang warfare as he did, it was no wonder he appeared far more nerve-racked by the occurrence than Mary, the victim, did.

"Come this way," he invited, and Mary and the stalwart officer followed him to a door at the rear of the long room. Here the fat man knocked, entered, spoke a few words, and then held the door open to admit the others. "O. K., come on through."

THE room was a small, neat dining-room. Half a dozen men sat about a wine-spotted tablecloth, smoking and drinking. A sudden silence, like paralysis, seized the group. As Mary and the officer appeared, one man, tall and foreign-looking, appearing—or was he merely well-tanned?—rose from his chair abruptly, then sank back again.

Mary smiled slightly and inclined her head in perfunctory recognition of what she took to be an act of politeness.

They passed through the room, out another door into a black hole of a hallway, and entered the back door of a drugstore opening on a side street. Here the officer deposited her packages into a taxi, and helped her in.

"I'll give you that driver's name," he said, taking out a pad and pencil.

"Do. And the other man's name, and the address of his restaurant," she added. "Perhaps I can take a party there for dinner sometime and pay him back that way."

"Don't worry about Jack," the policeman replied. "He don't want anything you could give him—unless it's a bullet-proof vest."

"Oh! Why?" The policeman had finished writing, and tore off the sheet and handed it to Mary without reply.

"I'll have to take your name and address as a witness," he said.

"Oh, keep me out of it!" Mary begged as she handed him her card. "My—the man I'm going to marry would be furious!" This wasn't quite true but it was true enough. The policeman did not protest when the taxi-driver drove off rapidly.

She was not much delayed, and felt no worse for the misadventure except a heightening of the sense of excitement that had been thrilling through her veins all day.

A glance at the clock on her mantel showed nearly 6 o'clock, and Dirk would come before she could freshen up and change unless she hurried. Fatigue vanished magically as she dashed about. Lured by curiosity, the lumbering Della came in to help, and to her own surprise as much as the maid's, Mary seized her about the waist and waltzed about the room with her.

"Della, Della, I'm going to be married tomorrow! Can you tell me a soul?"

"Tomorrow is it? Oh, Miss Mary! And does Mr. Jupiter know?"

"I don't know how to tell him, Della. I promised to stay, but—oh, if Mr. Bruce would only come!"

"Ah, that young spalpeen!" But the packages were a more potent attraction than the derelict Bruce—they forgot him in the joy of snapping string and burrowing into tissue paper. One simple little dress was all she was looking for,

to wear this evening, but somehow it seemed necessary to open all the boxes.

One revealed a little black dinner dress that was a love, all cobwebby lace at the top with a skirt made of stiff ruffles of net. They both hugged it, held it off and caressed it with their eyes. Mary had bought it for dining and dancing on shipboard, but she was tempted to wear it tonight. After all, could any night of her life be more important? Her last "date." There were embroidered slippers to match, and a white evening wrap. Mightn't they be going out to dance a little? Dirk hadn't said.

Della made her decision for her by whisking away the empty box.

"You think I should, Della?"

"Indeed, you should!" And that was that.

SHE had just taken a quick shower and given her hair a swift brushing that made her whole body feel tingly and rested, and slipped the black dress over newly bought underthings of incredible softness, when the maid came in, quite breathless with chagrin.

"Oh, Miss Harkness, I didn't hear you come in! A Mr. Bowen has been calling you repeatedly. He has some important information for you. He gave me his number and said he'd wait in until you called."

Mary took the card she proffered and went thoughtfully to the telephone.

Bowen's voice sounded very clipped and business-like over the wire—there was no sign of the wisecracking companion of yesterday's meeting. His serious tone impressed her as much as his words.

"Miss Harkness, the man we were speaking of is in New York. Not hiding, exactly, but—in retirement, and seems to have a good deal on his mind."

"Yes?"

"The talk is that he did both jobs. And underworld talk is usually pretty accurate. At least, I think this is. We can safely assume he is the man we are after. You understand, don't you? Rotten trying to talk over the telephone—"

"What—what shall we do?" Mary asked. She sat down suddenly, surprised to find herself shaking with excitement.

"What can we do, you mean," he corrected her. "God, I don't know. Several things. I don't want to miff this. Neither do you, I take it. Ordinarily I'd say take him in on the evidence we've got, and a trust Kane to third-degree a confession out of him. But I'm afraid—Tell you frankly, this bird has a rep for being slicker than an eel. He's been in a good many tight scrapes and wiggled out, legally. He's got a record, but that was years ago. They haven't pinned anything on him lately."

"I don't know, but it seems to me we ought to tie him up so tight he can't get away before we try to make a pinch. That's what I want to talk to you about. I've got a swell idea—look, is there somewhere I can see you?"

"Why, I— How could she see him tonight? Yet it might be her only opportunity. Tomorrow she would be married and gone."

"I'm just trying to think—I have an engagement tonight, but it may be quite late."

"I've got a night assignment or I'd come there. But I'd like to see you—something I want to talk over with you. Could you come in and have dinner with me some place?"

Mary thought rapidly. If Dirk was still at the office she could go in and meet Bowen and Dirk could call for her and bring her home. She would really see him much sooner that way. And so it was arranged.

"Then come to this address"—she wrote down the number he gave her. "I'll be there when you come."

DIRK had gone out to dinner, the bookkeeper said, when she called his office, but would be back. Mary gave him the address of the restaurant.

Mr. Jupiter had not come in—Spence reported his master had stayed at the Yacht Club for dinner with some of his old cronies. He had Tom, but in deference to her new clothes she called one of the other chauffeurs and drove into town in state. She had lost faith in taxis.

Bowen stepped out of the shadow of a flight of stone steps to greet her. It was not until they had entered the place that Mary recognized it.

"Why, this is where I was this afternoon!" she exclaimed as they threaded their way between tables to one in the angle of the wall. Half a dozen persons, all men, were scattered about the room, eating, drinking.

Mary was about to relate the story of the taxi accident, when she caught sight of an unforgettable ugly face reflected in a sideboard mirror. It was Mike, the waiter.

"Why, there's—" she began, but Bowen's gesture stopped her.

"Better not," he said. "Nothing to be scared of. I just don't understand all I know about this place, that's all. I'm hoping to find out something tonight."

They served them with an impassive countenance. The fat proprietor looked in from an adjoining room, nodded to Bowen, failed to recognize Mary in her evening attire, apparently, and slipped back.

"That's Jack Shay," Bowen told her in a low tone. "Jack's scared stiff. Somebody slammed into the front of his place this afternoon, and he hasn't stopped shaking yet. Jack can't figure out what they're after him for, Mike tells me, but he's gonna put the bum's rush on some guy he's got laying up upstairs. Thinks it's him they're after. Gang stuff, probably."

Mary burst out laughing and told about the accident.

"Well, keep it under your hat," Bowen advised. "Let Jack worry a little, it won't hurt him. Teach him not to let those bums hang around here the way he does. Jack's a right guy, but he's always taking it on the knuckles for some other guy. He's a regular grandma to all the crooks in Christendom. When they get in trouble, they take it on the lam for Jack's, and he puts 'em up till they can get out of town or it blows over. All I had to do was tell him Mike had a record, and he took him on. Heart as big as a beer-keg."

He grinned. "That's why we're dining in this dump tonight instead of in a joint that would fit those swell clothes of yours. I'm eating off the cuff this week." Then to avoid the solicitude in her eyes he added quickly, "I wonder who it is he's got upstairs? Vivian Gordon's murderer, of the guy that shot Rothstein?" He was being funny, now, and Mary smiled appreciatively.

Mike, the waiter, totaled up the bill, scribbled on a pad, and laid the sheet of paper face down on the table. Bowen picked it up and prepared to sign it. His face changed color as he read. He handed it to Mary.

"The Fly is here," she read. (To Be Continued)

Says Radio Has Not Helped Nation's Artistic Sense

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—(UP)—Dr. John J. Becker, St. Thomas college, today told the Minnesota Music Teachers Association that the radio had not contributed to the artistic development of the country.

He said he was not unmindful of the possibilities of the radio but he added these possibilities had not been realized.

"The radio has aroused a sort of morbid curiosity about good music but along with that it has made many an artist superficial," Dr. Becker said. "From the program we hear, it is apparent that the performers do not have time to prepare adequately."

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Northwestern and Minnesota, the only two undefeated Big Ten teams, will meet before a homecoming crowd of 50,000 at Evanston Saturday in a game that apparently will settle the Western conference football championship for 1931.

Certainly Northwestern will be able to get past Indiana and Iowa, its last two opponents, if the Wildcats conquer the Gophers.

Even if Minnesota upsets Northwestern's powerful machine, the Gophers will face Michigan on November 21 in order to win the title.

Wildcats Favored Over Gophers
Northwestern, which has victories over Ohio State, 10-0, and Illinois, 32-6, in the conference, will be highly favored over Minnesota, which has defeated Iowa, 34-0, and Wisconsin, 14-0. Northwestern is also undefeated outside the conference, but has played a scoreless tie with Notre Dame. Stanford's 13-0 victory is the only defeat Minnesota has suffered outside the Big Ten.

With Reb Russell, line-ripping fullback recovered from injuries received in the Nebraska game, Northwestern will be at full strength this week for the first time since the opening game. Pug Rentner, Northwestern's smashing halfback who ran 65 yards for the first touchdown against Illinois last week, will be ready to play despite an injured thumb. Rentner did not tear off his finger nail as was first announced by Northwestern officials.

Two touchdowns by two of the three players who received letters "offering" them $1,500 to "throw" the game enabled Minnesota to defeat Wisconsin, 14-0. Jack Manders, giant Minnesota fullback, ran 55 yards for the first score, and Capt. Clarence Munn took a lateral pass from Brad Robinson, end, after the latter had received a forward pass from My Uhl, and made the second touchdown. The forward-lateral pass gained 30 yards.

Michigan Meets Indiana
Two other conference games will be played this week, Michigan meeting Indiana at Ann Arbor and Illinois playing Wisconsin at Urbana.

Three interconference games and a battle between the Big Ten and Big Six complete the program. Navy comes to Columbus to meet Ohio State, and two southern teams, Arkansas and Centenary, come north to meet Chicago and Purdue respectively. Iowa meets Nebraska in the Big Ten-Big Six clash.

For the fifth time this season Notre Dame will face an undefeated team when the Fighting Irish tackle Pennsylvania at South Bend Saturday.

Notre Dame, with Markey Schwartz leading off 188 yards in gains from scrimmage, defeated Carnegie Tech, 19-0, for its 23rd victory in the last 24 games played. The other game was a 0-0 tie with Northwestern.

In the other Big Ten games last week Ohio State had to come from behind to win over Indiana, 13-6, and Purdue defeated Chicago, 14-6, after trailing, 6-0, at half-time.

Michigan's 21-0 victory over Princeton in the east and Iowa's 7-0 triumph over the invading George Washington eleven gave the Big Ten a clean sweep of its interconference games for the first time this season. Michigan's triumph avenged a defeat of 50 years standing at the hands of Princeton. Randall Hickman's touchdown against George Washington was the first time Iowa has scored this season and gave the Hawkeyes their initial victory.

Striking Plans Several

Fights in Europe

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Two fights in Europe next spring, one "possibly" with Max Schmeling, was said by "Pa" Stribling today to be on W. L. (Young) Stribling's ring card.

"Pa" said he had received messages from Jeff Dickson, Paris, France, promoter, asking that the Georgia heavyweight be brought there for two matches. Two fights are also in prospect for Stribling in Chicago, it was indicated.

Stribling meets "Red" Fitzsimmons, Waco, Tex., in Springfield, Mo., tomorrow night.

STAPLES COMPLETES HOMECOMING PLANS

PARADE, FOOTBALL GAME, BANQUET, BON FIRE, DANCE IN PLANS, NOVEMBER 6

The last plan has been completed for the homecoming celebration which will be staged at Staples Friday, Nov. 6. Every graduate of the Staples high school has been invited, responses have been received from a large number, and according to these responses, the crowd will be the largest ever.

Banquet, parade, bon fire, and all have been provided for. Park Rapids high school will send their football team to Staples to play the Staples team, and to finish the day, a dance has been arranged with Jack Kane orchestra providing the music.

Chicago Boy Seeks Title in First City Championship Go

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—When Earl Mastro meets Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, Conn., world's featherweight champion, in a 10-round title bout at the Chicago stadium Wednesday night, it will be the first time in 37 years that a Chicago boy, born and reared here, has engaged in a championship match in Chicago. Betting odds were quoted at even money today.

JONES PRAISES GOPHERS, COACHING STAFF BUT SCORES OFFICIALS OF BADGER GAME

By PAUL M. JONES

Under ideal weather conditions and on a fast, dry field as only the Gophers give their opponents, the Badgers and Gophers met Saturday at Minneapolis in their forty-first struggle, before the fourth largest crowd in the history of Minnesota football in which the Gophers were victorious for the twenty-second time, 14-0, though the Badgers were a 10-7 favorite.

Pans Thistlewaite

I could see from the start of the season that the Gophers would be a formidable team, but might be slow in reaching their peak. Saturday, they were as perfect as any squad could be, and besides were riddled to pieces with injuries. Right here let's praise Coach Crisler and staff for their commendable work. His diagram of attack and defense was ideal, and for his work he was rewarded by one of the most spectacular games ever played by a Minnesota team. It was well in the third quarter before the Badgers registered a first down, then only two, but in the last period with their backs to the wall and desperate to score and unnerve the hustling Gophers they unleashed a terrific attack in the forward pass department. Right here I want to criticize Coach Thistlewaite for not running his passes from a formation with some deception, instead of just getting the passer drop back, after getting ball from center. Had he done this, I am sure Wisconsin would have scored. While it happened to test the Gophers to withstand the onslaught at their goal and backfield to fathom the receiver were the Gophers able to withhold the tide until the gun banged.

Deception, speed and every player doing his part, made possible the first score by Manders, from a fake reverse, and a big hole awaiting him at left tackle through which he evaded all opponents for a 55 yard run and kicked goal in the first eight minutes of play. This no doubt broke the Badgers spirit, and from then on, the Gophers were in command of the play, though tight at times. Close to the close of the second period Uhl passed to Robinson who was about to be tackled on the 10 yard line and lateral passed quickly to Munn who was in the clear and easily scored, placing the Gophers in such a commanding lead the Badgers were demoralized. Who would have thought to watch the two biggest men on the

East Holds Leadership in Intersectional Games

New York, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Despite gains of the mid-west in intersectional football games of the week-end, the east today continued to hold its leadership in this phase of competition.

The intersectional standings:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
East	21	12	1	.636
Far West	2	2	1	.500
Mid-west	14	16	3	.467
Southwest	3	4	0	.429

ST. MARY'S GAELS MAINTAIN EDGE IN WEST COAST PLAY

team, for long runs or scores, on such plays, mapped out only for the fleetest of players. Smart plays and well played.

Officials Miscue

As usual for the third consecutive home game the Gophers were abused by the officials and visiting players. The Badgers played dirty football all afternoon but were particularly represented to this vicious manner by Kruger (center) and Linfor (half). While we were penalized 30 yards to Badgers 15 which was better than previous games, still these two men did enough damage in infringing on the rules to be eliminated and Minnesota receiving half the distance to the goal. Let me state here an example of their work: In second period Munn pointed towards east goal to the 17 yard line south side of field out of bounds, and ball was given Badgers on 22 yard line. The Badgers could crawl and be down and get up and run still left where last tackled. In a close game these are damaging factors. I never saw four officials as lifeless and dumb towards their duties as in this game. I am not crying. I just want both teams treated fairly and not always picking Minnesota. Personally I blame Crisler for this for he is not firm enough with these fellows to let them know they must do their duty and fairly. Their work was not even average to say the least of Big Ten officials.

Gophers Crippled

Now the Gophers prepare for Northwestern and the championship of the conference is at stake Saturday at Evanston. While the Purple have a great team, and have done well, they have not yet been tested outside the Notre Dame game, and a game from the Gophers, as Saturday, and Northwestern would have to be perfect. Minnesota is too crippled, to give their best, and especially so, after the two hard games of the past two weeks. If Somers can be taught to hold that ball until MacDougall can be inserted, and not fumble and put Minnesota in the hole against a team like Northwestern, the Gophers will no doubt give the Purple more than was expected, before the western conference title rests at Evanston, for 1931. Personally, I am looking for Minnesota to win, as they are gradually coming into their own, while Northwestern with a veteran team was ready from the start and it is harder to retain form, than to perfect it.

LOCAL SOOTHSAYER FORGES IN FRONT IN GRID PREDICTIONS

PICKS 18 WINNERS OUT OF 25 GAMES WITH TWO TIES CUTTING AVERAGE

Old Darby Hicks had nothing on The Daily Dispatch soothsayer in his predictions on last Saturday's football games. The local handicapper bolstered his average picking 18 winners out of 25 games. And, two of the games represented the scores that did not help the prognosticator's average any. The Daily Dispatch handicapper, after plowing around in the schedule for the last several weeks, at last hit a score on the nail. It was the Iowa-Washington game which the local fortune teller gave Iowa by a 7 to 0 score. And, that's how it resulted. He also felt quite proud of himself on several other games.

In the Big Ten, he bagged all games except the Michigan-Princeton clash. The Wolverines gave Princeton a sound thrashing which was contradictory to the prediction. But, Northwestern, Ohio State, Purdue, Iowa and Minnesota all came through with victories in keeping with the prognostications.

Other winners picked included Alabama over Kentucky; Texas Christian over Arkansas; California over Nevada; Notre Dame over Centenary; Vanderbilt over Georgia Tech (many of the wisecracks tripped on this game); Harvard over Virginia; Nebraska over Missouri; Pittsburgh over Penn State; Southern Methodist over Texas; Stanford over U. C. L. A.; and Army over Colorado.

He suffered a jolt in the scores of the Creighton-Haskell; Brown-Holy Cross; Kansas-Oklahoma A. & M.; New York U.-Oregon; Oklahoma-Iowa State games.

The scores resulted in the Dartmouth-Yale and Navy-West Virginia games.

ST. MARY'S GAELS MAINTAIN EDGE IN WEST COAST PLAY

DEFEAT SANTA CLARA IN ROUGH MEETING 21 TO 14 TO CONTINUE PACE

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—The Gaels of St. Mary's retained their record as the only unbeaten and untied major team in the west today after a rough and tumble renewal of their ancient rivalry with Santa Clara university that sent three Bronco players to the hospital seriously injured.

Although known for years as the hardest fought contest on the Pacific coast, the St. Mary's-Santa Clara "little big game" before 60,000 fans in Kezar stadium here yesterday—won by the Gaels, 21 to 14—was recorded as the roughest of all their meetings.

The injuries began with the opening kickoff, when Vincent O'Donnell, star Santa Clara halfback, was knocked out in tackling the St. Mary's receiver. He received contusions of the groin and possible internal injuries, indicated by an abdominal hemorrhage, according to Dr. Rodney Yoell, team physician.

The next to be injured as the teams continued their furious tussle was Charles Fuller, Bronco halfback. He walked off the field unassisted, but at the hospital it was found he had suffered a broken collar bone, broken breast bone and two fractured ribs as the result of a hard tackle while carrying the ball.

Joe Paglia, fullback and Santa Clara's outstanding player, was hurt late in the third quarter in stopping a line plunge by Bud Toscani of St. Mary's. He lay inert after the tackle and was removed from the field in an ambulance. An examination showed he had received two cracked vertebrae and a concussion of the spinal cord.

LEADERS TO MEET WEEK AFTER NEXT FOR FINAL DECISION

CONCORDIA SHOWS STRENGTH IN VICTORY OVER ST. JOHN'S ELEVEN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—With the State conference football championship race narrowed down to St. Thomas and Concordia college as the only undefeated teams, a final decision as to which team will emerge at the top will probably have to wait until a week from Saturday when the two meet.

Concordia definitely declared itself as a formidable championship contender with its overwhelming defeat of St. John's of Collegeville Saturday by a 29 to 0 score at Moorhead. St. John's had not been defeated and had upset the strong St. Olaf squad the week before.

St. Thomas went outside the State conference to battle with the Red Men of St. Mary's to a scoreless tie, Sunday at Winona. Although St. Mary's made 10 first downs to St. Thomas' five, it was the Tommies who made the most dangerous threat. Each team held within its own 10 yard line.

The powerful St. Olaf team, smarting from its upset defeat last week at the hands of St. John's, smothered Gustavus Adolphus at St. Peter, 26 to 0. Sil Saumer, all-conference halfback, went on a rampage during the afternoon, capping off his ground gaining with a 55 yard dash for a touchdown. Macalester scored its first conference victory Friday at the expense of the lowly Augsburg eleven. The score was 13 to 0.

The conference standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Thomas	3	0	1.000
Concordia	2	0	1.000
St. John's	3	1	.775
St. Olaf	2	1	.666
Gustavus	2	2	.500

"The European eats when he is hungry. All I hear in this country is, 'When do we eat?'"

STAPLES-WADENA BATTLE SCORELESS

OLD RIVALS PLAY HARD STRAIGHT FOOTBALL; FEW PASSES ATTEMPTED

"Nothing to nothing," reads the record book in which is tucked away the final score of the football game played Saturday afternoon at Staples between the Wadena and Staples high school football teams. It was the "big" game of the season in many respects, as Wadena and Staples are old rivals, each being anxious to defeat the other.

The game was a hard game of straight football. Neither team made a great effort to attempt forward passes. Both lines held well, and but small gains were made. Wadena had the ball in Staples territory when the final gun ended the game.

Seattle, Wash.—Police had Davey Jones in a locker, but it wasn't the Davey Jones and locker of nautical fame. Jones was a companion of three holdup men, and not the fictitious character who's supposed to wait at the bottom of the sea to receive drowning sailors.

GREEN BAY PACKERS CONTINUE PACE BY DEFEATING BEARS

BENNY FRIEDMAN LEADS NEW YORK GIANTS TO WIN OVER PORTSMOUTH

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—The Green Bay Packers, twice National Professional league football champions, held undisputed possession of the league lead today for the first time this season.

Green Bay won its eighth straight game by defeating the Chicago Bears before 30,000 here yesterday, 6-2. Michaelske, former Penn State tackle, intercepted Brumbaugh's pass and ran 80 yards in the second period. Jesse Hibbs, former Southern California tackle, smeared Dunn, Green Bay quarterback, on the goal line for a safety in the third period.

With Benny Friedman back in the lineup, the New York Giants inflicted the first defeat of the year on the Portsmouth Spartans, 14-0. Friedman threw two passes in the second period which led to both touchdowns.

In the other two league games Sunday the Chicago Cardinals won from Brooklyn, 14-7, and Providence and Staten Island played a 7-7 tie.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Green Bay	8	0	1.000
Portsmouth	8	1	.889
New York	4	3	.571
Chicago Bears	3	3	.500

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Northwestern and Minnesota, the only two undefeated Big Ten teams, will meet here for a homecoming game at Evanston Saturday in a game that apparently will settle the Western conference football championship for 1931. Certainly Northwestern will be able to get past Indiana and Iowa, its last two opponents, if the Wildcats conquer the Gophers. Even if Minnesota upsets Northwestern's powerful machine, the Gophers will face Michigan on November 21 in order to win the title. Wildcats Favored Over Gophers Northwestern, which has victories over Ohio State, 10-0, and Illinois, 32-6, in the conference, will be highly favored over Minnesota, which has defeated Iowa, 24-0, and Wisconsin, 14-0. Northwestern is also undefeated outside the conference, but has played a scoreless tie with Notre Dame. Stanford's 13-0 victory is the only defeat Minnesota has suffered outside the Big Ten.

With Reb Russell, line-ripping fullback recovered from injuries received in the Nebraska game, Northwestern will be at full strength this week for the first time since the opening game. Pug Rentner, Northwestern's smashing halfback who ran 65 yards for the first touchdown against Illinois last week, will be ready to play despite an injured thumb. Rentner did not tear off his finger nail as was first announced by Northwestern officials.

Two touchdowns by two of the three players who received letters "offering" them $1,500 to "throw" the game enabled Minnesota to defeat Wisconsin, 14-0. Jack Manders, giant Minnesota fullback, ran 55 yards for the first score, and Capt. Clarence Munn took a lateral pass from Brad Robinson, end, after the latter had received a forward pass from My Uhl, and made the second touchdown. The forward-lateral pass gained 30 yards.

Michigan Meets Indiana Two other conference games will be played this week, Michigan meeting Indiana at Ann Arbor and Illinois playing Wisconsin at Urbana.

Three interconference games and a battle between the Big Ten and Big Six complete the program. Navy comes to Columbus to meet Ohio State, and two southern teams, Arkansas and Centenary, come north to meet Chicago and Purdue respectively. Iowa meets Nebraska in the Big Ten-Big Six clash.

For the fifth time this season Notre Dame will face an undefeated team when the Fighting Irish tackle Pennsylvania at South Bend Saturday. Notre Dame, with Marcy Schwartz reeling off 188 yards in gains from scrimmage, defeated Carnegie Tech, 19-0, for its 23rd victory in the last 24 games played. The other game was a 0-0 tie with Northwestern.

In the other Big Ten games last week Ohio State had to come from behind to win over Indiana, 13-6, and Purdue defeated Chicago, 14-6, after trailing, 6-0, at half-time.

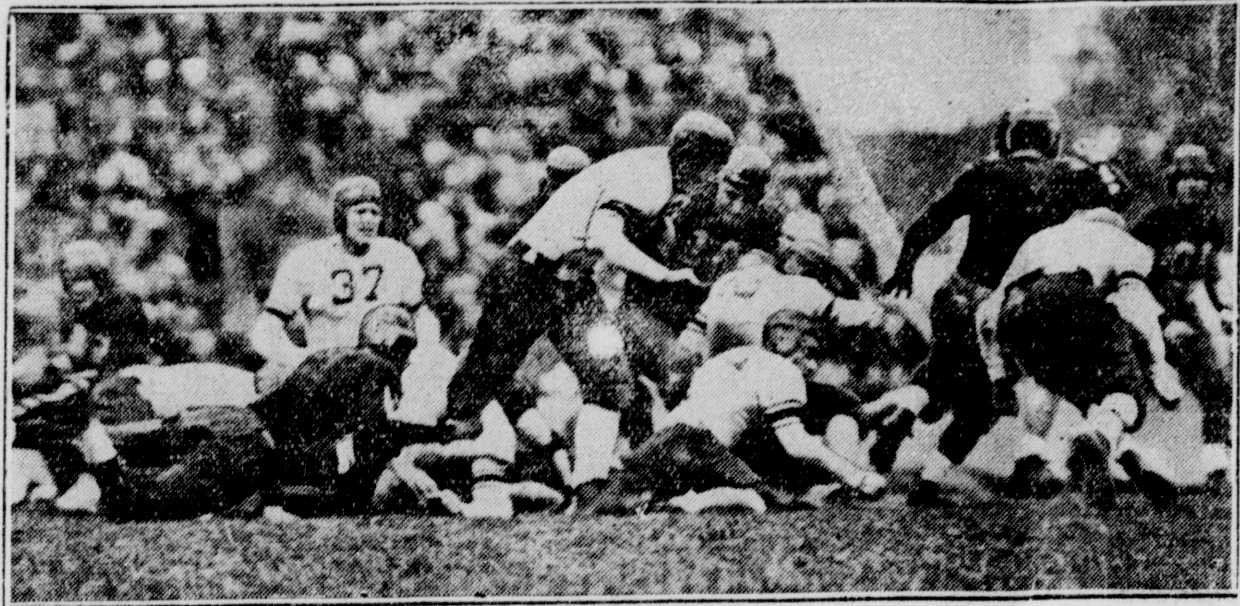

Michigan's 21-0 victory over Princeton in the east and Iowa's 7-0 triumph over the invading George Washington eleven gave the Big Ten a clean sweep of its interconference games for the first time this season. Michigan's triumph avenged a defeat of 50 years standing at the hands of Princeton. Randall Hickman's touchdown against George Washington was the first time Iowa has scored this season and gave the Hawkeyes their initial victory.

Stribling Plans Several Fights in Europe

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Two fights in Europe next spring, one possibly with Max Schmeling, was said by "Pa" Stribling today to be on W. L. (Young) Stribling's ring card. "Pa" said he had received messages from Jeff Dickson, Paris, France, promoter, asking that the Georgia heavyweight be brought there for two matches. Two fights are also in prospect for Stribling in Chicago, it was indicated. Stribling meets "Red" Fitzsimmons, Waco, Tex., in Springfield, Mo., tomorrow night.

State College Race Narrows Down to St. Thomas, Concordia

Gophers' Opponents Next Week Tounce Illini

Northwestern-Illinois.

Northwestern's undefeated eleven bowled over the University of Illinois for a 32 to 6 win in their game at Dyche Stadium, Evanston, Ill., before a crowd of 35,000. Oliver (Olie) Olson, Purple fullback, is shown going through tackle in the first quarter.

STAPLES COMPLETES HOMECOMING PLANS

PARADE, FOOTBALL GAME, BANQUET, BON FIRE, DANCE IN PLANS, NOVEMBER 6

The last plan has been completed for the homecoming celebration which will be staged at Staples Friday, Nov. 6. Every graduate of the Staples high school has been invited, responses have been received from a large number, and according to these responses, the crowd will be the largest ever. Banquet, parade, bon fire, and all have been provided for. Park Rapids high school will send their football team to Staples to play the Staples team, and to finish the day, a dance has been arranged with Jack Kane orchestra providing the music.

Chicago Boy Seeks Title in First City Championship Go

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—When Earl Mastro meets Christopher (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, Conn., world's featherweight champion, in a 10-round title bout at the Chicago stadium Wednesday night, it will be the first time in 37 years that a Chicago boy, born and reared here, has engaged in a championship match in Chicago. Betting odds were quoted at even money today.

JONES PRAISES GOPHERS, COACHING STAFF BUT SCORES OFFICIALS OF BADGER GAME

By PAUL M. JONES

Under ideal weather conditions and on a fast, dry field as only the Gophers give their opponents, the Badgers and Gophers met Saturday at Minneapolis in their forty-first struggle, before the fourth largest crowd in the history of Minnesota football in which the Gophers were victorious for the twenty-second time, 14-0, though the Badgers were a 10-7 favorite.

Pans Thistlewaite I could see from the start of the season that the Gophers would be a formidable team, but might be slow in reaching their peak. Saturday, they were as perfect as any squad could be, and besides were riddled to pieces with injuries. Right here let's praise Coach Crisler and staff for their commendable work. His diagram of attack and defense was ideal, and for his work he was rewarded by one of the most spectacular games ever played by a Minnesota team. It was well in the third quarter before the Badgers registered a first down, then only two, but in the last period with their backs to the wall and desperate to score and unnerve the hustling Gophers they unleashed a terrific attack in the forward pass department. Right here I want to criticize Coach Thistlewaite for not running his passes from formation with some deception, instead of just having the passer drop back, after getting ball from center. Had he done this, I am sure Wisconsin would have scored. While it happened to test the Gophers to withstand the onslaught at their goal and the alertness of the line play and backfield to fathom the receiver were the Gophers able to withhold the tide until the gun barked.

Deception, speed and every player doing his part, made possible the first score by Manders, from a fake reverse, and a big hole awaiting him at left tackle through which he evaded all opponents for a 55 yard run and kicked goal in the first eight minutes of play. This no doubt broke the Badgers spirit, and from then on, the Gophers were in command of the playing, though tight at times. Close to the close of the second period Uhl passed to Robinson who was about to be tackled on the 10 yard line and lateral passed quickly to Munn who was in the clear and easily scored, placing the Gophers in such a commanding lead the Badgers were demoralized. Who would have thought to watch the two biggest men on the

East Holds Leadership in Intersectional Games

New York, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—Despite gains of the mid-west in intersectional football games of the week-end, the east today continued to hold its leadership in this phase of competition. The intersectional standings:

East	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Far West	2	1	1	.536
Mid-west	14	16	3	.467
Southwest	3	4	0	.429
South	6	12	1	.333

Fastest Night Plane

London—England claims to possess the world's fastest night-flying fighting airplane. It is said to be able to make more than 200 miles an hour and climb to three miles above the earth in a few minutes. It carries two machine guns and a load of bombs.

Officials Miscue

As usual for the third consecutive home game the Gophers were abused by the officials and visiting players. The Badgers played dirty football all afternoon but were particularly represented to this vicious manner by Kruger (center) and Lintor (half). While we were penalized 30 yards to Badgers 15 which was better than previous games, still these two men did enough damage in infringing on the rules to be eliminated and Minnesota receiving half the distance to the goal. Let me state here an example of their work: In second period Munn punted towards east goal to the 17 yard line south side of field out of bounds, and ball was given Badgers on 22 yard line. The Badgers could crawl and be down and get up and run still left where last tackled. In a close game these are damaging factors. I never saw four officials as lifeless and dumb towards their duties as in this game. I am not crying. I just want both teams treated fairly and not always pinking Minnesota. Personally I blame Crisler for this for he is not firm enough with these fellows to let them know they must do their duty and fairly. Their work was not even average to say the least of Big Ten officials.

Gophers Crippled

Now the Gophers prepare for Northwestern and the championship of the conference is at stake Saturday at Evanston. While the Purple have a great team, and have done well, they have not yet been tested outside the Notre Dame game, and a game from the Gophers, as Saturday, and Northwestern would have to be perfect. Minnesota is too crippled, to give their best, and especially so, after the two hard games of the past two weeks. If Somers can be taught to hold that ball until MacDougall can be inserted, and not fumble and put Minnesota in the hole against a team like Northwestern, the Gophers will no doubt give the Purple more than was expected, before the western conference title rests at Evanston, for 1931. Personally, I am looking for Minnesota to win, as they are gradually coming into their own, while Northwestern with a veteran team was ready from the start and it is harder to retain form, than to perfect it.

LOCAL SOOTHSAYER FORGES IN FRONT IN GRID PREDICTIONS

PICKS 18 WINNERS OUT OF 25 GAMES WITH TWO TIES CUTTING AVERAGE

Old Darby Hicks had nothing on The Daily Dispatch soothsayer in his predictions on last Saturday's football games. The local handicapper bolstered his average picking 18 winners out of 25 games. And, two of the games represented tie scores that did not help the prognosticator's average any. The Daily Dispatch handicapper, after plowing around in the schedule for the last several weeks, at last hit a score on the nail. It was the Iowa-Washington game which the local fortune teller gave Iowa by a 7 to 0 score. And, that's how it resulted. He also felt quite proud of himself on several other games.

In the Big Ten, he bagged all games except the Michigan-Princeton clash. The Wolverines gave Princeton a sound thrashing which was contradictory to the prediction. But, Northwestern, Ohio State, Purdue, Iowa and Minnesota all came through with victories in keeping with the prognostications. Other winners picked included Alabama over Kentucky; Texas Christian over Arkansas; California over Nevada; Notre Dame over Carnegie Tech; Texas A. & M. over Centenary; Vanderbilt over Georgia Tech (many of the wisecracks tripped on this game); Harvard over Virginia; Nebraska over Missouri; Pittsburgh over Penn State; Southern Methodist over Texas; Stanford over U. C. L. A.; and Army over Colorado.

He suffered a jolt in the scores of the Creighton-Haskell; Brown-Holy Cross; Kansas-Oklahoma A. & M.; New York U-Oregon; Oklahoma-Iowa State games.

Tie scores resulted in the Dartmouth-Yale and Navy-West Virginia games.

ST. MARY'S GAELS MAINTAIN EDGE IN WEST COAST PLAY

DEFEAT SANTA CLARA IN ROUGH MEETING 21 TO 14 TO CONTINUE PACE

San Francisco, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—The Gaels of St. Mary's retained their record as the only unbeaten and untied major team in the west today after a rough and tumble renewal of their ancient rivalry with Santa Clara university that sent three Bronco players to the hospital seriously injured. Although known for years as the hardest fought contest on the Pacific coast, the St. Mary's-Santa Clara "little big game" before 60,000 fans in Kezar stadium here yesterday—won by the Gaels, 21 to 14—was recorded as the roughest of all their meetings.

The injuries began with the opening kickoff, when Vincent O'Donnell, star Santa Clara halfback, was knocked out in tackling the St. Mary's receiver. He received contusions of the groin and possible internal injuries, indicated by an abdominal hemorrhage, according to Dr. Rodney Yoell, team physician. The next to be injured as the teams continued their furious tussle was Charles Fuller, Bronco halfback. He walked off the field unassisted, but at the hospital it was found he had suffered a broken collar bone, broken breast bone and two fractured ribs as the result of a hard tackle while carrying the ball.

Joe Paglia, fullback and Santa Clara's outstanding player, was hurt late in the third quarter in stopping a line plunge by Bud Toscani of St. Mary's. He lay inert after the tackle and was removed from the field in an ambulance. An examination showed he had received two cracked vertebrae and a concussion of the spinal cord.

LEADERS TO MEET WEEK AFTER NEXT FOR FINAL DECISION

CONCORDIA SHOWS STRENGTH IN VICTORY OVER ST. JOHN'S ELEVEN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—With the State conference football championship race narrowed down to St. Thomas and Concordia colleges as the only undefeated teams, a final decision as to which team will emerge at the top will probably have to wait until a week from Saturday when the two meet.

Concordia definitely declared itself as a formidable championship contender with its overwhelming defeat of St. John's of Collegeville Saturday by a 29 to 0 score at Moorhead. St. John's had not been defeated and had upset the strong St. Olaf squad the week before. St. Thomas went outside the State conference to battle with the Red Men of St. Mary's to a scoreless tie, Sunday at Winona. Although St. Mary's made 10 first downs to St. Thomas' five, it was the Tommies who made the most dangerous threat. Each team held within its own 10 yard line.

The powerful St. Olaf team, smarting from its upset defeat last week at the hands of St. John's, smothered Gustavus Adolphus at St. Peter, 26 to 0. Sil Saumer, all-conference halfback, went on a rampage during the afternoon, capping off his ground gaining with a 55 yard dash for a touchdown. Macalester scored its first conference victory Friday at the expense of the lowly Augsburg eleven. The score was 13 to 0.

The conference standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Thomas	3	0	1.000
Concordia	2	0	1.000
St. John's	3	1	.775
St. Olaf	2	1	.666
Gustavus	2	2	.500
Macalester	2	2	.500
Hamline	0	3	.000
Augsburg	0	4	.000

Washington—After years of search, the spawning beds of the halibut, long a mystery, have been found in ocean shallows within 50 miles off the coast of Alaska. Here, according to J. P. Babcock, chairman of the Canadian-American Halibut Commission, the large fish go to spawn. It is expected that this bank will give much valuable information on the life of the fish.

Chef Says We Don't Know How to Eat

Birmingham, Ala.—"You in America have forgotten how to dine." In these words Leon Choulart, famous Swiss chef, mourns the passage of Americans' taste in eating. "In Europe, people take time to eat for two or three hours," he explains. "Over here—quick—as soon as you sit down, you want to get up, back to business. Over there, they eat because they enjoy it; here you eat because you have to eat. "The European eats when he is hungry. All I hear in this country is, 'When do we eat?'"

The fight, Jacobs said, will be either in New York or Chicago in June or September.

STAPLES-WADENA BATTLE SCORELESS

OLD RIVALS PLAY HARD STRAIGHT FOOTBALL; FEW PASSES ATTEMPTED

"Nothing to nothing," reads the record book in which is tucked away the final score of the football game played Saturday afternoon at Staples between the Wadena and Staples high school football teams. It was the "big" game of the season in many respects, as Wadena and Staples are old rivals, each being anxious to defeat the other. The game was a hard game of straight football. Neither team made a great effort to attempt forward passes. Both lines held well, and but small gains were made. Wadena had the ball in Staples territory when the final gun ended the game.

Seattle, Wash.—Police had Davey Jones in a locker, but it wasn't the Davey Jones and locker of nautical fame. Jones was a companion of three holdup men, and not the fictitious character who's supposed to wait at the bottom of the sea to receive drowning sailors.

GREEN BAY PACKERS CONTINUE PACE BY DEFEATING BEARS

BENNY FRIEDMAN LEADS NEW YORK GIANTS TO WIN OVER PORTSMOUTH

Chicago, Nov. 2.—(U.P.)—The Green Bay Packers, twice National Professional league football champions, held undisputed possession of the league lead today for the first time this season.

Green Bay won its eighth straight game by defeating the Chicago Bears before 30,000 here yesterday, 6-2. Michaelske, former Penn State tackle, intercepted Brumbaugh's pass and ran 80 yards in the second period. Jesse Hibbs, former Southern California tackle, smeared Dunn, Green Bay quarterback, on the goal line for a safety in the third period.

With Benny Friedman back in the lineup, the New York Giants inflicted the first defeat of the year on the Portsmouth Spartans, 14-0. Friedman threw two passes in the second period which led to both touchdowns.

In the other two league games Sunday the Chicago Cardinals won from Brooklyn, 14-7, and Providence and Staten Island played a 7-7 tie.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Green Bay	8	0	1.000
Portsmouth	8	1	.889
New York	4	3	.571
Chicago Bears	3	3	.500

THREATENS DAMAGE SUIT FOR EVICTION FROM HIS PROPERTY

"FIGHTING BILL" CODY, VETERAN OF MANY COURT BATTLES, MAY SUE SHERIFFS

Watertown, Wis., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Sheriffs of Dodge and Jefferson counties and several citizens are threatened with a $50,000 damage action by William G. (Fighting Bill) Cody, who has been involved in law suits here for 20 years. Cody claims that foreclosure of his farm property and eviction from his home in Watertown last spring were illegal. He has threatened to sue the sheriffs, Skinner and Thauer, Watertown law firm; Elizabeth S. Wolfram, Henry J. Schaub, Elizabeth S. Henning, H. E. Wolfram, and Violet Goessling, all participants in the foreclosure proceedings.

The Codys refused to leave their home when Sheriff John S. Gruel, Jefferson county, moved out their furniture and boarded up their house. They moved into a woodshed back of the house. Cody has regained possession of his farm just north of the city limits in Dodge county on a court commissioners' order enjoining the evictors from interfering with his "quiet enjoyment of the premises."

former county traffic officer. Harris was taken to jail for questioning and admitted his identity.

"This is the worst break of my life," he told Officer Peter Lepine. "I am an escaped prisoner from California with one driven by Robert Shields, and I stole the car at Neenah, Ohio."

Watertown, Wis., Nov. 2.—(UP)—An attempt to rob the Citizens State Bank of Milwaukee failed when a bandit was frightened away by a burglar alarm.

The bandit broke into the bank and waited for employees to arrive. As they came in he flourished a revolver and tied them up.

Five of the employees had been bound when one rolled over far enough to sound the alarm. A gong outside the bank sounded and the bandit fled just before a dozen policemen arrived on motorcycles and in squad cars.

Girl Found Slain in Wisconsin Unidentified

Shawano, Wis., Nov. 2.—(UP)—Despite scores of letters from relatives of missing girls the body of the pretty dark-haired woman who was found murdered near the Shawano Indian reservation, remains unidentified.

The body, when found, was nude except for a burrap sack over the head. Tracks of an automobile were found nearby but could not be followed nor identified.

A stolen automobile abandoned at Antigo which contained two empty .22 calibre rifle shells is still being held in the hope that it may furnish a clue.
